BOOM CULTIVATION.

Bill Tompkins had tried every sort of shift. That a shrewd politician could hope to invent.

For giving his candidate's boomlet a lift, But the harder he lifted the lower it went.

Though he did all he could, every hour it lost ground; It dwindled and dwindled, as William could note.

Till at last there was only one delegate found Who would stick to his promise and give him his vote.

In sheer desperation Bill sat down to think, And ordered a bottle to drown his great trouble.

But soon when he'd taken full many a drink, He saw that he seemed to be seeing things double.

"I've got an idea, an' a good 'un," says Bill, As he ordered another big bottle to guzzle.

And straightway proceeded his system to fill With dubious liquor clean up to the muzzle.

Just then the one delegate walked through the room, And Bill, looking after, elated and proud,

Cried out his joy: "She's beginning to boom." For to him the one delegate looked like a crowd.

AN ADDICTIOUS STANZA.

Bill Tompkins confided his secret around To all politicians he happened to know,

And even to this day it is frequently found They use his invention to make their booms grow.

ABDUCTION CHARGED.

After Living With Him Two Days George Ott's Wife Left Him.

A new phase in the celebrated case of George Ott, whose efforts to have his newly wedded wife return to him have already been made known through THE LEDGER, was developed in "Squire Wilson's" court at Cincinnati.

OTT it will be remembered married Miss Clara Story, September 6th, and after living together two days the wife received a telegram at Paris, where her husband is largely interested in cattle dealing, from her guardian, John Story, at Cincinnati, stating that her sister was dying and wished to see her. Mrs. Ott accordingly hastened to Cincinnati, and has not yet returned to her husband. The latter made an investigation of her strange conduct and found that the telegram was merely a ruse from her relatives to have her leave him. Ott immediately instituted habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Wilson, but his wife stated to the Court that she did not desire to return to her husband, assigning no reason, however, for her peculiar action. Since that time Mrs. Ott has been residing with her married sister, Mrs. Sallie Loesch.

About 6 o'clock Tuesday night Ott appeared before "Squire Wilson and swore out a warrant for the arrest of both Loesch and his wife, charging them with abduction. A Constable arrested them and brought them before "Squire Wilson, who placed them under bond for their appearance next morning.

While Mr. and Mrs. Loesch were on their way to the city in the custody of a Constable, a couple of rough looking characters appeared at the house and introduced themselves as agents of a so-called Queen City Detective Agency, a private concern, about which little good is known. They were supposed to be F. S. Penderly who was discharged from the service of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, and William Morrison, known to his intimates as "Greasy," and the two exponents (?) of the law attempted to induce Mrs. Ott to leave the house and accompany them to the city under the plea of meeting her husband. She refused to go, naturally a little alarmed at their somewhat uncouth appearance, and the two officers (?) would probably have attempted by force what they were unable to do by stratagem, but the girl screamed, and her guardian, with some of the neighbors, came to her assistance, and the alleged detectives retired.

Mrs. Ott and her sister are of the opinion that the arrest of the latter and her husband was only a scheme whereby, during their absence, Mrs. Ott could be abducted. Ott is 30 years of age, while his wife is only 17. He has always borne an unblemished reputation, and his numerous friends sympathize with him in his peculiar misfortune.

Handled Successfully.

The Chesapeake and Ohio handled more G. A. R. excursionists than any other road in the country, and a remarkable fact is that not a single accident happened on their line, says THE Ashland News.

They handled forty-seven trains, which aggregated three hundred and forty-nine coaches. Allowing seventy persons to each coach they hauled the enormous number of 24,430 people.

Every precaution was taken by the C. and O. people to prevent accidents. All trains to Washington were given a clear track, and section men were placed at stated intervals along the track, and a man was placed at each switch to see that everything was all right.

The G. A. R. people are very loud in their praise of the treatment given them by the C. and O. management, and they will advertise this line all over the Union on their return home.

Few roads could have handled the large number of trains as did the C. and O., and great credit is reflected on M. E. Ingalls and his staff officers.

ANOTHER BIG COMBINE.

There's to Be No Monopoly of the Tobacco Business in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati's big tobacco combine is not to have the monopoly of business in that city that it counted on and confidently started out to attain.

A rival is already as good as in the field. It is the Farmers' and Shippers' Tobacco Warehouse Company. It will begin business on or before January 1st next.

The new company owes its origin to the disaffection among tobacco men in Ohio and Kentucky with "the combine."

It was understood by them that "the combine" aimed at controlling prices and other matters connected with the business to a degree that would be very troublesome and embarrassing. Hence the desire and demand for competition, which has resulted in the formation of the Farmers' and Shippers' Company.

That firm is now incorporated under the laws of Kentucky, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. The men in it are President J. D. Hearne of the Third National Bank, DeWitt C. Collins and Frank F.

These names are sufficient to make it accepted everywhere that the new enterprise is business from the start. Mr. Collins has been prominent in banking and tobacco business in Covington for several years. He was Cashier of the Northern Bank, and subsequently a partner in the big tobacco firm of Lovell & Buffington. Mr. Collins is widely known through Kentucky, and especially among its tobacco men, and possesses the confidence of them all as one of the most capable and upright of the state's business men.

Mr. Frank Ford is the well-known wholesale grocer. He does not intend to take an active part in the affairs of the new company, though he is one of the organizers and will be a heavy stockholder.

The placing of the stock is now going on, and has been left entirely with Mr. Collins, who is now traveling through Kentucky, placing the stock where it will do the most good.

There are $700,000 of preferred stock, which it is expected will pay from six to eight per cent. dividend. The remaining $300,000 is to be common stock.

The company has several offers for the site of its building. It will deal with them in another week or so and with the purpose to make its establishment complete in detail.

The encouragement which has so far reached the new company from the growers and dealers in Ohio and Kentucky has been cordial and general.

Sadie Scanlan.

New Orleans Playmate.—Sweet Sadie Scanlan, a sister of that once eminent actor, Will Scanlan, made her initial bow to a New Orleans audience last night at the Grand Opera-house. From the very first the charming little lady commanded respect and admiration. Her youthful, as well as her pretty face and a finely moulded figure, would have been sufficient attraction to make her hundreds of friends, but couple these charms, her brightness, her singing and dancing and her modest ways, completed the attractiveness that drew to her that big audience.

Miss Scanlan appeared as Nora Macree, in a piece of that name. It is a simple story of Irish life, that at times is very affecting, but through which runs a vein of Irish wit and humor that can only be found in plays of this character. Of course Miss Scanlan is the star around which the lesser planets revolve. Her singing was indeed excellent, and several of her ballads were sung in a manner that brought tears to the eyes of many of the audience. The character was a simple one, but in Miss Scanlan's hands it is made more of than perhaps what the author intended.

Nothing but praise could be said of the star's support. They realized that Miss Scanlan's splendid performance called for equally as faithful work on their part and everyone did their best to please, a work which was accomplished successfully.

This talented actress will be at Washington Opera-house soon.

It is stated that the balance of the troops now at Homestead will leave this week, and many of the non-union laborers will leave also.

THE total number of Oddfellows is now 72,146, the increase last year being 48,807. The revenues were $7,956,064.48, and the sum of $3,142,131.90 was paid out for the relief of sick members. There are 155,015 Rebekah Degree members who have paid $35,520.18 in relief. The total membership, including Rebekah Degree, is 802,881.

ONE of the oldest mills in Kentucky is that of Robert Ryman, in Fayette county. It was built about the year 1800, and the present owner, who is 94 years old, has been running it ever since he was a boy. It is on Elkhorn creek, which stream turns its ancient wheels. Miss Lucy Lee Hill is making arrangements to have the mill in its entirety transported to the Chicago World's Fair, and old man Ryman will go along to run it.

THE Kentucky Deaf Mute published at the D. and D. Institute in Danville, says: Among the new pupils this year is Daisy Billings of Louisville, blind, deaf and dumb. She is nine years of age, has been deprived of sight and hearing since infancy, and her education will present some unusual problems. She is a pleasant looking, healthy child with plenty of sense and with the examples of such cases of Laura Bridgman and Helen Keller before us we feel hopeful of being able to do much for her mental development and the training of her moral nature. We have not yet adopted a plan for her education, but will do so soon, and her progress will be watched with interest.

Ex-Mason County Dead in Illinois.

A letter has been received by THE LEDGER from O. G. Albertson at Arrow-smith, Ill., telling of the death at that place of W. B. Strode an ex-citizen of this county.

He died suddenly of heart disease. He had just returned from a business trip and as he entered his house he fell prostrated and died in a few minutes.

Her Confidence Was Well Founded.

"I would rather trust that medicine than any doctor I know of," says Mrs. Hattie Mason, of Chilton, Carter county, Mo., in speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This medicine can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases, both for children and adults. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Power & Reynolds.

Sale of Stock.

C. F. Taylor sold the following stock for Mrs. S. E. McAttee yesterday: Work horse $131.50; bay mare $133; aged mule $111; old horse $55; old horse $91; old horse $90; yearling filly $130; yearling gelding $79; yearling mule $75; yearling mule $59.50; cow $29; cow $38.50; cow $32; cow $40.50; steer $50; steer $33.75; steer $36.55; steer $37.50; 13 mountain ewes $106. Stock hogs 5 cents per pound.

Diarrhoea in Kentucky.

"There has been a continuous tendency to bowel disease here this season," says G. W. Shivers, druggist, Wickliffe, Ky., "and an unusual demand for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I have sold four bottles of it this morning. Some remarkable cures have been effected by it and in all cases it has proved successful." For sale by Power & Reynolds.

Half Fare—Harvest Excursion.

The Ohio and Mississippi Railway will run one of its popular harvest excursions to points West, Northwest and South-west, leaving Cincinnati September 27th, and to points South and Southwest leaving Cincinnati October 25th; tickets good for return twenty days from date of sale.

The O. and M. is the direct fast line to all points in territory named via St. Louis. Pullman chair cars and sleepers on all trains. For rates, tickets and further information call on or address agents of connecting lines, or C. W. Paris, Central Passenger Agent, 48 West Fourth street, Cincinnati, O.

In Time of Peace Prepare for War.

Have you ever thought what you would do in case you, or some one of your family, was taken with a severe attack of colic, cholera morbus, dysentery or diarrhoea. In such cases it is not unusual for fatal results to follow before medicine can be procured or a physician summoned.

There is nothing that will give permanent relief so quickly as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It never fails even in the most severe cases either for children or adults. Why not keep it at hand? 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Power & Reynolds, Druggists.

Married this Morning.

The marriage of James Dunn and Miss Laura Bona was solemnized this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church.

The groom is a steady and industrious man, and is well known in this city, where he has long been connected with the railroads. He is at present yards master of the L. and N. at this point.

The bride is a daughter of A. Bona, the confectioner on Second street. By her sprightliness and charming manners she has won for herself a large number of warm friends.

They departed immediately for St. Louis on a bridal tour.

Don't Fail to Register.

The law says: "In cities of first, second, third and fourth classes a registration of all qualified voters in such cities and towns shall be held on the first Tuesday in October and on such other days as the city councils of such cities may prescribe, the last, however, to be not later than the third Tuesday in October. The General Assembly will doubtless pass the necessary legislation dividing the cities and towns of the state into their respective classes in time for a registration of voters in October, 1892. It shall be the duty of the County Clerk in each county where a city of such class is situated, to furnish registration books, and the election officers for the precincts and cities in such cities shall hold such registration, and the persons so registered as prescribed, shall be the legal voters of such cities."

Where We Get Our Cholera.

Lexington Leader.—Cholera breeds and riots in filth. Hamburg is said to be one of the filthiest cities in the world, and for the past fifty years has been ravaged by epidemics. Up to the present time more than fifteen thousand cases have occurred there during the present Asiatic cholera visitation. A very large number of the victims are the drags of the city's population. They live in abject misery in the filthiest quarters, on streets so narrow that the houses, above the first stories, almost touch, thus keeping out sunshine and air currents, and inclosing warmth and moisture to feed the pestilence.

Hamburg is the greatest emigrant port of Europe. It is situated upon the Elbe some distance above its mouth. The Elbe rises in Austria and flows Northwest, past Prague, across the frontier, then past Dresden. Continuing its course past Magdeburg, it forms a confluence with a Northern branch coming down past Berlin. Its waters are polluted by the sewage of Berlin, Magdeburg, Halle, Dresden, Prague, Pelsen and the towns and villages along its main course and branches. It is no wonder, therefore, that the water of the Elbe, which the emigrant ships take on as a supply during their voyages across the Atlantic, is full of disease and death.

At Hamburg are concentrated rail and water lines reaching into Russia, Austria and all parts of Germany. These gather in that city the scum of Europe, and a conscienceless steamship line dumps it upon our shores.

WANT DAMAGES.

Hamburg Company Sued by a New York Attorney,

For the Detention of Himself and Wife in Quarantine.

Three Suspicious Cases Reported to the New York Board of Health—Quarantine Lifted From Several Houses—Miss Mary Connelly Recovered.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The first of a large number of suits against the Hamburg American Packet Co., for damages for the detention of passengers in quarantine, was begun in the United States circuit court, Wednesday, by Courtlandt S. Van Rensselaer, ex-assistant United States district attorney, who, with his wife, was a passenger on the Normannia. He had been traveling through Europe during the summer, and when in London and about to return to this country, he went to the Hamburg line office and demanded to know whether it was the intention of the company to transport steerage passengers on the Normannia, stating that, if such was the case, he would take passage on some other line, so as not to incur the dangers of possible cholera. He was assured that the Normannia would sail from Hamburg with no steerage passengers. He and his wife were put on board the Normannia subsequently by the usual tag, and when he was on board and too late to leave the ship he learned that the steerage was well filled with passengers of that class.

He then goes on to recite the history of the breaking out of the plague on board and of the ship being placed in quarantine for thirteen days with its attendant discomforts and the sufferings and hardships of the cabin passengers on the steamboat Cephus afterward, and winds up by demanding $10,000 damages and prays for the Normannia to be condemned and sold in order that his claim be paid.

The health department received Wednesday afternoon from Prof. Biggs the result of the bacteriological examinations made in the case of John Knox, the fireman of the steamship State of Nevada, who died aboard that vessel last Sunday night, and of Louis Wein-hagan, who was found sick on Sunday night last and removed to the Reception hospital. The report states that both cases were genuine Asiatic cholera. The health board reported the fact of the death of the State of Nevada's fireman from Asiatic cholera Wednesday afternoon.

Another case of suspected cholera was reported to the board of health Wednesday afternoon. It was that of Patrick Stewart, who was found sick and removed to the Reception hospital. Stewart is a boiler-maker employed in the Brooklyn navy yard.

Mrs. Vincenzo Grappolas died Wednesday night, it is suspected, from cholera. She was seized with vomiting and diarrhea during the afternoon and in a couple of hours was in a state of collapse.
